Bachelor of Music - Classical Transfer

1 or 2-year Transfer Program

Fee Category: V

The Program

This Classical Music program is two years in length, leading to university transfer in a Bachelor of Music degree at British Columbia universities. The program can also lead to a Bachelor of Education degree with a Major in Music. Students who successfully complete two years of study at VIU are eligible for VIU's Associate in Music diploma.

The program includes classroom lectures, seminars, and performance ensembles. Students are offered performance opportunities in a professional performance environment with an audience. Performances are evaluated by a faculty jury.

Becoming an accomplished musician requires practice, and students should be prepared to work long hours practicing their music. The program also includes an academic component that requires home assignments, for which self-discipline and good time management skills are required. The program can be completed on a part-time basis, and some courses are offered in the evenings.

A free information session for prospective students is usually held in February. Check with the Advising Centre for more details, 250-740-6410.

Admission Requirements

- General admission requirements apply.
- English 12 with min. "C+" for students intending to enrol in English 111; min. "C" for students intending to enrol in English 115, or equivalents.
- Successful audition to show musical competence.

Recommendation for Admission

- Grade 2 Toronto Conservatory Theory; however, applicants will undergo a placement test to ascertain level in Music Theory. Upgrading will be arranged, if necessary.

Start Date and Application Deadline

Students can start the program at VIU in September or January; however, the selection of courses is usually greater in the Fall semester. Applications are accepted anytime between November 15 and June 1. Late applications will be considered if space remains.

Special Expenses

In each year of the program, at least two courses are fulfilled on the basis of private tuition instruction only. This means that course requirements are met by study under the supervision of independent instructors--highly respected professionals in their fields--designated for the purpose by the department. Only upon certification by private tuition instructors that students have met appropriate requirements, in addition to end of semester juries, will students be given credit for the appropriate course at the appropriate level. The fees for these courses are set by the department.
